

You're invited to...

A

Wizards' Fair

An IL by Ari, Mike, and Dan
(no experience necessary, of course!)

What's an "IL," you ask? An IL, or "Interactive Literature," is an event where you get a character - a 1-2 page description of some person in a fictional world - and act out that person's life for 4-6 hours. You do what (s)he does in almost every sense of the word (combat is, of course, more safe than real life, and magic is also handled with a system and your own imagination). If that character is involved in intrigues, committed a murder, is vying for power in the king's court, or needs to save the damsel in distress, that's you doing it, and it's another real person playing the king, or the damsel, or the person who was murdered. It's great acting, great fun, and lots of cool people all going off of imagination. Come join us!

A Wizards' Fair - an IL
coming to Mathcamp
this Sunday afternoon/evening

Sign up here, and we'll write you a character!

A Wizards' Fair Sign-Up

1.

2.

3.

4.

5.

6.

7.

8.

9.

10.

11.

12.

13.

14.

15.

16.

17.

18.

19.

20.

21.

22.

23.

24.

25.